

Hello -

5/10/99

I am writing with reference to Docket No. 98N-1038. The issue I am concerned about is proper + accurate labeling of food products, if food has been irradiated, then the consumer deserves to know it has been irradiated. That is the language that it makes sense to use rather than a term such as "cold pasteurization", which is misleading (I believe).

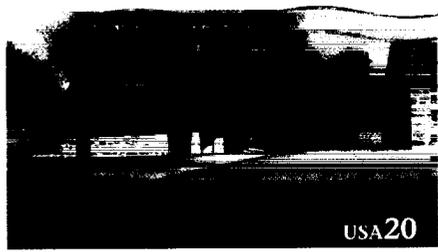

I am a voter, a small scale food producer, and a consumer. This year - after some soul searching - I am voluntarily ~~including~~ including some non mandatory ingredients on my label. All ingredients should be mandatorily labeled in my opinion.

Thanks - Dave Gott
